

For Immediate Release:

Michigan, Trenton-Detroit

Trenton Forging Grows Poinsettias in Rooftop Greenhouse for Holiday Gifts

Two months ago, Trenton Forging President, David Moxlow, purchased 130 poinsettia cuttings from a commercial greenhouse. These cuttings were potted and hooked up to the water and fertilization system in the rooftop greenhouse at Trenton Forging Company to continue growing and reach that beautiful red color.

“New and old employees have shown exceptional and truly commendable work performance this year, and we wanted to thank them for their efforts while wishing all a Merry Christmas,” says David Moxlow.

This past Sunday, David, Renee, Chelsea, and Dane Moxlow, and family friend Anthony Bragadin, foiled and bagged the poinsettias. Each of the 94 employees will receive a poinsettia and the remaining plants will be distributed to customers in the area by Trenton Forging’s sales team.

Chelsea Moxlow, Director of Marketing and Promotions, says, “Our employees are great, and the greenhouse provides a few ways that we can give back to them. We hope their poinsettia provides some Christmas cheer this season, and soon they will also be taking home fresh produce that we have grown in the greenhouse as part of the employee wellness initiative!”

Michigan-based Trenton Forging is a leading producer of custom impression die forgings for a wide variety of industries, including automotive, mining, military, and agriculture. Trenton Forging has the distinction of being one of the first companies of any kind worldwide to be certified QS9000, and the first closed impression die forging company in the world certified QS9000/ISO9002. Visit us at www.trentonforging.com for more information, to request a quote, and to view more photos of the greenhouse.